

OMA's February 2007 total passenger traffic increases 12.1%

- Domestic traffic jumps 19.3%

Monterrey, NL., Mexico, March 8, 2007—Mexican airport operator Grupo Aeroportuario del Centro Norte, S.A.B. de C.V., known as OMA, reports that total passenger traffic (terminal passengers) at its 13 airports reached 1.01 million in February 2007, an increase of 12.1% compared to February 2006, driven by a 19.3% increase in domestic traffic. The airports with the most significant increases were Monterrey, Torreón, Culiacán, and Chihuahua.

Domestic traffic in February 2007 totaled 767,149 passengers, an increase of 19.3% compared to the prior year. The new airlines that have entered the market since the end of 2005 (Alma, Aladia, Avolar, Interjet VivaAerobus, and Volaris) continue to positively impact OMA's passenger traffic.

International traffic was 244,645 passengers in February 2007, a 5.8% reduction compared to February 2006. The airports in Chihuahua, Torreón, and Culiacán recorded increases. The cancellation of international routes by Aviaca and Aerocalifornia last year continued to affect our airports generally, with the most significant impacts on Monterrey, Durango, and Mazatlán. The decrease in traffic in the tourist destinations was principally due to a decrease in charter flights during the month.

By airport

Monterrey, OMA's principal airport, served 427,765 passengers in February 2007, an increase of 16.2% compared to the same month of 2006. Domestic traffic benefited from the traffic generated by Aviaca and the new airlines. VivaAerobus added a third plane to its fleet, and effective February 25 was operating a total of 14 domestic routes from Monterrey. On the other hand, the cancellation of Aviaca's routes from Monterrey to Chicago and Miami continued to affect international traffic at the airport.

OMA's regional airport with the most significant growth was Culiacán, where February 2007 passenger traffic increased 29.8% (+17,534 passengers), with a 30.8% increase in domestic traffic and a 6.9% increase in international traffic. Domestic traffic benefited from increased activity by operators such as Mexicana, VivaAerobus, and Avolar. International passenger traffic increased as a result of Delta's new route to Los Angeles, which started in January.
